TO BE SOLD,

A LEASE for ſeven years, from the 25th March next, in that capital and beautiful FARM, called

PROSPECT-HILL,

Situated within one quarter of a mile from the Brandywine Mills, and half a mile from the borough of Wilmington.

THE dwelling houſe is built of ſtone, two ſtories high, genteely finiſhed, and contains four handſome rooms on a floor, beſides an entry, with capital garrets, and convenient cellars. It is generally thought to command the moſt agreeable proſpect of the Delaware, from the ſource of that river to the Capes. This proſpect is greatly embelliſhed by a full view of a vaſt body of meadow, through which the Chriſtiana and Brandywine creeks are ſeen winding in beautiful meanders. Near the houſe are a Kitchen, a ſpacious ſtone ſtable and hay loft, a barn, a carriage houſe, milk-houſe, &c. and a well of as pure water as any on the continent. The garden contains an acre and quarter of land, abounding with fruit, and particularly with peach trees, of the very beſt kind, brought from Maryland, and in full bearing. There is, moreover, on the place, a young, apple orchard begining to bear, and ſeveral old trees that produce abundantly, beſides cherry and other ornamental trees, in great numbers. The farm conſiſts of near ſixty acres of land, of good quality, and clear of incumbrances, except taxes, twenty of which are now in exceellent clover and timothy, and ten more will be ready for ſowing next ſpring. A reſidence of nearly 8 years has convinced the ſubſcriber that the ſituation is remarkably healthy. The great poſt road from Philadelphia to the Southward runs within ſeventy yards of the houſe. In a word, the beauties and convenience of this ſituation cannot be enumerated in an advertiſement, and when examined, will probably command the attention of any perſon who is deſirous of living at one of the moſt elegant country ſeats on the continent. The purchaſer may enter on the premiſes next ſpring, or perhaps, this fall, if application be immediately made to Doctor NICHOLAS WAY, in Philadelphia, to Doctor WHARTON, on the premiſes, or, in his abſence, to Mr. GEORGE TRUITT, in Wilmington.

A quantity of excellent Hay, Grain in the ground, ſome Stock, &c. may be had by the purchaſer at the time of ſale.

VIVAT RESPUBLICA!

MR. FENNELL

Reſpectfully ſubmits to the public patronage his intention of delivering, during the enſuing winter,
A COURSE OF
READINGS and RECITATIONS,
Moral, Critical, and Entertaining;

Conſiſting chiefly of detached pieces, ſelected from the moſt admired authors, in proſe and verſe:—Arranged in ſuch a manner as to exhibit a ſtriking diſplay of the human paſſions, and the gradual influence of vices on the mind contraſted with that of their oppoſite virtues, in affecting the happineſs of man and the welfare of nations. The readings will be occaſionally interſperſed with obſervations on the moſt celebrated authors,

And the ART of SPEAKING.

The whole intended as a combined ſyſtem of moral, critical, hiſtorical, and oratorical inſtruction, calculated to form the patriot and the man, and lay a foundation for the ſcience of moral and political government.

The courſe will conſiſt of thirty readings.

Each reading will be delivered in the morning and evening of the ſame day.

The days of reading will be Tueſdays & Thurſdays.

The morning readings will commence at 10 o'clock, and the evening at 7.

None but ſubſcribers will be admitted to the morning readings.

The evening readings will be public, to which alſo ſubſcriptions will be received.

Subſcription to the mornings 8 dollars.

Subſcription to the evening readings 10 dollars.

Occaſional admiſſion tickets to the evening readings half a dollar.

Subſcriptions are received by Mr. Zachariah Poulſon, jun. at the Library, to whom the Ladies and Gentlemen who may be inclined to honor the undertaking with their patronage, are reſpectfully requeſted to ſend their names.

From the CONNECTICUT COURANT.

Remarks on Adet's laſt addreſs.

DURING the ſeventy years of war, with which New-England was ſo terribly ſcourged, the French ſupplied not only arms, but goſpel miſſionaries to direct the uſe of them. Who taught their converts to believe, that Jeſus Chriſt, the friend of poor Indians, was born of a French woman, and ſuffered death by the hands of Engliſhmen.—It was juſt as much the deſign of that preaching to do good to the Indians, as it was of the interference of France in '78 to do good to America.—Her ſole object was to "divide and rule."

Many have long been deceived with regard to the latter part, as it reſpects this country; but France does not wiſh them to be deceived any longer, and has thrown off the maſk. Confident that victory in other countries, and corruption in this, have prepared the way; ſhe avows the deſign of appointing for us a chief magiſtrate, and taking the government under her own controul.—She did the ſame for Geneva; ſhe has done the ſame for Holland; and claims a ſpecial right to do it for us, on the ſcore of having ſaved us from Great-Britain, and made us what we are.

Other reaſons are alſo aſſigned in the addreſs. Particularly, that we have ſtopped quarreling with the Britiſh—for that is the amount of it. As to the ſuggeſtion that the treaty of London interferes with that of Verſailles, or "grants commercial advantages to Great-Britain that are denied to France;" it is a ſheer lie—and too eaſy of detection to have been told by a miniſter, but for the purpoſe of keeping blockheads in countenance who had told it before. No, the offence is that we have not gone to war, nor ſuffered to continue a quarrel, which would have kept us attached to France, and blind to her ambition.—She can now no longer truſt us to prejudices; and therefore impoſes ſhackles.

It is alſo among the allegations, that veſſels claimed as prizes to French privateers, have in our ports been "liberated."—They have ſo. 1. Where the veſſel was American or neutral property.—2. Where it had been captured within our waters.—3. Where captured by a privateer fitted out within the United States. In thoſe caſes, and there has been no other, liberation was of right claimable from the juriſdiction of the country; and not oppoſed by treaty. If any lawyer has a doubt to the contrary, he will oblige the public by ſtating it.—But where French privateers legally fitted out and commiſſioned, have captured their enemies upon the high ſeas, and brought them into the ports of the United States, which is the caſe provided for by the treaty; none have been liberated; nor have any been ſubjected to enquiry except under ſuſpicious circumſtances, upon a claim of their being within one of the three deſcriptions before ſtated; and then not a moment longer than was eſſential for the inveſtigation of ſuch claim. All which Adet knew perfectly well, as did every body elſe—but people in the back country, for whom doubtleſs this charge was intended. The ſuggeſtion on the other hand, that the government or the people connived at the fitting out of Britiſh privateers, or ever knew of any, merits no anſwer but that diſgraceful one, that during the period alluded to, the French had a mob in every principal port, to ſcreen their own villainy from juſtice, and to inſult Britiſh merchantmen—ſome of which were burned.

So long as the French could induce Americans, as they did for two years at the ſouthward, to fit out privateers under their commiſſions, and thereby enrage the Britiſh to retaliate upon us; things worked as they would have them. And it was the final diſconcertion of that game by government, after it had tricked us out of millions, and prepared for us a war, that conſtitutes the real ground of offence on the ſubject of privateering—and renders it neceſſary to put the government into other hands.

Columns of reaſons muſt remain untouched; inſtead of fabricating which, Adet would certainly have done better in copying after the king of Spain. When he, a few years ago, on principles of ſpeculation, declared war againſt Great-Britain; he alleged in his manifeſto, that the wrongs done him amounted to one hundred, but did not ſpecify them.

As Bulls for dethroning princes uſed to begin and end with grace; ſo does this denunciation of wrath with love to the people—though coupled by the way, with hatred to the government. For Frenchmen reconcile love to the people with hatred to that government whoſe acts are their will, with as much facility as Doct. Huntington divides the good from the bad at the day of judgment—by ſending the acts of ſinners to hell, and the ſinners to heaven.—As to this marvellous love, however, and its more marvellous requirement; the miniſter, ſpeaking of the evil at hand, ſays, "the attachment which his government bears to the American PEOPLE, the vows which it forms for their proſperity, for their happineſs—that very friendſhip renders it indiſpenſable."—Yes, that very friendſhip renders the chaſtiſement indiſpenſable.—Gracious God! How long ſhall that impious directory uſurp thy prerogative of ſcourging nations for their own good?—But if it muſt be ſo, what is the good to be effected by this friendly chaſtiſement of plunder and robbery?—The anſwer is deduceable from the drift of the manifeſto. And is plainly this, to wean us from the government and adminiſtrators of our own choice; and make us willing to be governed by ſuch as France ſhould think beſt for us—beginning with Jefferſon.

In vain, my dear and devoted countrymen, have we bled and conquered—in vain have we dreamed of independence—if the neck muſt bow to the yoke at laſt.

EMIGRATIONS TO AMERICA.

Mr. Ralſton, the Karmarnockſhire farmer, took with him, above two years ago, four thouſand guineas in gold, beſides other property to a large amount. He has ſettled in Kentucky, upon a fertile and delightful ſpot of the country, where his knowledge in agriculture, cannot fail to turn out highly beneficial to America.

Mr. Binny, letter-ſounder, left Edinburgh laſt ſpring. His attachment to the cauſe of liberty, procured him the enmity of the rulers of that city A man may as well pretend to ſucceed in the laborious employment of Siſiphus, as to carry on buſineſs ſucceſsfully, when the hand of power is oppoſed againſt him.

Mr. Binny intends to eſtabliſh himſelf in Philadelphia, where, no doubt, he will reap the fruits of his induſtry and ingenuity.

Mr. James Denoon is ſettled in Philadelphia, as a bookſeller, where he can carry on his trade without dread of impriſonment, or Botany-bay.

Mr. Ronaldſon, of Edinburgh, who was a member of the Britiſh convention, ſailed from Leith in the ſpring of 1794, and has now eſtabliſhed a very large baking concern in Philadelphia.

George Higgins, of pop-gun-plot memory, ſailed in the Diana, for Philadelphia, on the 19th of laſt month.

Citizen Lee, the bookſeller, who made his eſcape, has likewiſe reached the hoſpitable ſhore of Columbia. He has begun buſineſs in Philadelphia, and is ſucceeding very well. He writes, that population increaſes faſt, and that his own wife has lately added a female citizen to the republic.

October 11.

M. de Kerguelen, who was turned out of the Royal Navy of France, for high miſdemeanours, and ſome time ago obtained the rank of rear-admiral in the republican marine, has lately publiſhed, at Paris, a work entitled, Prècis des Evenemens de la Guerre Maritime, depuis 1778, entre la France et d'Angleterre—(Brief expoſition of the events of the maritime power between France and England, which commenced in 1778.) In this publication we find the following article relative to the preſent ſtate of the French navy:

"Our navy," ſays he, "which during the late war, balanced that of England, was, in 1789, compoſed of 80 ſhips of the line, completely equipped, of as many frigates and corvettes; and all our naval magazines and dock-yards were ſtocked with every article neceſſary for the maintenance and ſupport of a great navy. But now, about 35 ſhips of the line have been either taken or deſtroyed; a great number of our frigates have likewiſe fallen into the hands of our enemies; all our naval magazines are empty; the captures we have made, the number of which amounts to upwards of 700 veſſels, are partly diſpatched; the ſeamen and ſailors who made the captures, have hitherto ſcarcely obtained any part of the fruits of their gallantry and exertions. They have deſerted the fleet in great numbers, thro deſpair. Almoſt all our colonies, which ſhould have been protected by our navy, are either diſorganized or reduced by England. This is a true and exact ſtatement of our navy, which before the revolution was powerful enough to balance that of our rivals, and is now almoſt entirely annihilated by them."

This picture, drawn by a man who cannot be ſuſpected of any partiality in favor of Great Britain, affords a ſtrong reply to the oppoſition writers, who are daily aſking, what are the advantages that Great-Britain has reaped from the preſent war? The annihilation of the navy of our rivals is not the only advantage we have obtained; but it is a very important one.

CONGRESS OF THE UNITED STATES.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

MONDAY, December 12.

Mr. Ames, from the committee appointed to prepare an anſwer to the Preſident's ſpeech, reported an addreſs, which was read, ordered to be committed to the whole houſe to-morrow, and in the mean time to be printed.

The ſpeaker laid before the houſe a letter, incloſing ſundry ſtatements relative to the expences of the war department, to the end of the year 1795, purſuant to a reſolution of the houſe on the firſt of June laſt, which was read, and ordered to be printed.

A meſſage was received from the ſenate, informing the houſe, that they had concurred in their reſolution reſpecting the appointment of chaplains, and had choſen biſhop White.

Mr. Dwight Foſter, chairman of the committee of claims, reported, that on examining the unfiniſhed buſineſs which had been referred to that committee, they found many petitions upon which no report had been made, owing to the late period of the ſeſſion at which they had been preſented: they were therefore deſirous, that the houſe ſhould come to a reſolution to the following effect:

"Reſolved, that all claims which were, during the laſt ſeſſion of Congreſs, referred to the committee of claims, and not by them reported upon, be, and the ſame are hereby referred to the committee of claims for their conſideration, to report thereon, purſuant to the rules of this houſe." Agreed.

Mr. Madiſon preſented a memorial from the commiſſioners appointed under the act reſpecting the fixing of the ſeat of government at the federal city, ſtating, that as the inſtitution of a national univerſity had been contemplated, and the Preſident of the United States had appropriated land upon which to erect an edifice for that purpoſe, and given fifty ſhares in the Potomac river to the inſtitution, and as they had no doubt but many other donations would be made towards carrying into effect ſo deſirable an inſtitution, were they properly authoriſed by Congreſs to receive them; they therefore pray, that Congreſs will paſs ſuch regulations as ſhall enable them to receive ſuch legacies and donations as may be given towards effecting this inſtitution.

This memorial was referred to a ſelect committee of three members.

Mr. Swanwick preſented a petition from Charles White, merchant of this city, praying for the remiſſion of a forfeiture on account of the breach of revenue laws by the captain of the ſchooner Neptune, belonging to him, by ſecreting coffee on board the ſaid ſchooner, and evading the duties payable thereon; ſtating, that the captain had defrauded him of 3000 dollars, beſides 30 bags of coffee: being himſelf ſo great a ſufferer, and wholly innocent, he truſted therefore for relief from Congreſs.

Mr. Swanwick alſo preſented a petition from Joſeph Rittenhouſe, merchant, at preſent confined in the debtors apartment in this city, at the ſuit of the United States. The petitioner ſtates, that he had surrendered the whole of his property among his general creditor, and had petitioned for his discharge, supposing his case to come within the act for the relief of persons imprisoned for debt; but finding it did not, he had no other resource than to petition Congress for relief.

Mr. Swanwick presented also a petition from Bartholomew Sarazen, praying for relief on account of loss sustained by the capture of his property by an armed vessel of the French republic, restitution for which he had not been able to obtain.

The first of these petitions was referred to the committee of commerce and manufactures, and the two last to select committees of three members each.

Mr. Jackson, from Virginia, presented a petition for opening a new road in the vicinity of Mornington in Virginia. Referred to the post office and post road committee.

Mr. Bailey presented a petition for Rich. Champillon and Daniel Mattock, of Duchess, for a new licence to a schooner, which had been forfeited.—Referred to the committee of commerce and manufactures.

Mr. Williams moved that that part of the report of the committee of revisal and unfinished business which respected refugees from Nova-Scotia and Canada, should be referred to a committee of the whole house; which being agreed to, and made the order of the day for Thursday, he presented a petition from James Crawford, of Cambridge, a sufferer in Nova-Scotia during the war, for relief, which was referred to the same committee.

Mr. Williams moved that the house should proceed to the election of a chaplain; which being agreed to, Mr. Williams, nominated Dr. Green, and Mr. Jackson (V.) Dr. Priestley.

The ballot was proceeded upon, and being finished, Mr. Williams and Mr. Greenup were appointed a committee to count the ballots, which being done, Mr. Williams reported that the votes were

For Dr. Green,	35
Dr. Priestley,	27
Mr. Blair,	6

Whereupon Dr. Green was declared duly elected.

Mr. Griswold moved the order of the day on the bill for amending the act for a more general promulgation of the laws of the United States; which being agreed to, the house resolved itself into a committee of the whole thereon, Mr. Muhlenberg in the chair, and having read the same, rose and reported the bill without amendment. The house took it up, agreed to it, and ordered the bill to be engrossed for a third reading to-morrow.

Mr. Coit moved the order of the day on the report of the committee of claims on the petition of Henry Hill. The house formed itself into a committee of the whole, and the report was read. As this case is somewhat complex, to give the public as clear an idea of it as we are able, we give the report of the committee at length. It was in these words:

"That on the 15th of February, 1783, a contract was made under the authority of the superintendant of finance, with John Banks, for supplying the southern army—and it was stipulated, among other things, that payment should be made in gold or silver, at Philadelphia. Banks's accounts were settled in 1783 and 1784, to the mutual satisfaction of him and the public officers; excepting so much as was contained in a charge of 9,768 81-90 dollars, including principal and interest, against Banks. This charge was made, and the sum retained, on the ground, that 8,612 24-90 principal, and 1,156 57-90 interest, was in Mr. Charles Pettit's hands, which he claimed on account of a claim he, as quarter-master, had against the United States, and the treasury officers claimed as monies deposited for John Banks, on account of the above contract, and that Mr. Pettit held the said sum for Banks
